Comments:

- Project had clear goals and strong plans for oversight and budgetary compliance. Sustainability plan was clear as online program will secure continued use of deliverables. Collaboration is clear with multiple partners working together to develop deliverables.
- What is the evidence the court is more trauma-informed with this project? The advisory board members bring relevant expertise but I could not determine what if any tangible change would occur in the courts or who in the courts would be responsible for implementation. In the Sustainability section, the applicant states: "Through this project we will build awareness and capacity of the existing workforce, who can, in turn, institutionalize the acquired knowledge and trauma-informed approaches strategies and resources." How does this project link the information gained through the tools and online training to someone or a group that will take the learning and tools to implementation?
- The need for this training is described in general terms, but it isn't clear how this need may vary around the state.
 - More detail about the implementation plan for this work is needed. What is the plan to roll out the developed materials across the state? What barriers are likely to be encountered with a mass roll-out of this work and how will the barriers be addressed?
 - Insufficient detail on the development of the content for this program.
 - Timeline seems insufficient to complete the various tasks associated with this project, from conducting a needs assessment, analyzing the data, using the data to develop the training materials, editing and finalizing the materials, and then implementation of the program.
 - Evaluation plan could be improved. Demonstrating acquired knowledge is not the same as measuring how this training impacts behavior and outcomes.
 - Despite the general letter of support that has been provided, it didn't seem like strong community connections or collaborations were in place.
 - Given the full-time employees to be funded using this source, it is unclear how the course materials and content will be sustained and revised upon completion of this 2-year project.
 - Budget seems quite large for development of training materials.
- Very well written and clear, goals were clear, sustainability plan well supported.
- Concerned about evaluation survey distributed by clerks (courtroom clerks?); has anyone contacted the Conference of Clerks to get buy-in and collaboration on this project?
 - Are judges, attorneys, and/or clerks part of the "law" portion of the advisory committee? How do you create a training without the intended target audience input?
 - Will this be NC specific? This is a large sum to spend on basic training that will not be updated after the grants ends.
 - Don't see an identifiable need for this project. Needs assessment to be done after grant is awarded. Have current trainings that are already available on the topic been researched
- One thing that bothers me about this project is there is no actual representation from the legal system. There are alleged experts in the NC legal system, but no judge, lawyer, or clerk listed. The Administrative Office of the Court supplied a letter of support, but otherwise seems uninvolved. (This is doubly concerning, given that the application was originally sent back for revision because there was no MOU between UNC and the AOC. From what I can tell, there is still no such document.) The involvement of such representatives seems a critical component of ensuring that the information is effectively tailored to the intended audience. Re: goals and objectives, there are a tremendous number of resources publicly available about ACEs, but the project does not describe how such resources will be utilized and adapted for the contemplated training. I'm struggling to match the amount of funding requested with what is already available and what remains to be done.

2021 Children's Justice Act Application

Project ID / Name	Subrecipient	Federal Request	Average Score
PROJ014814 – State Training & TA to Improve the Investigation, Prosecution and Service Provision of Child Abuse Cases	CAC of North Carolina	$504,007.00	76.57

- Need was not clearly articulated as to why more training and infrastructure is needed to extent outlined in the application. Did not see goal for finding new and innovative training and educational delivery and sustainability systems beyond what exists. Did not see how project will work with other agencies/interagency collaboration outside the CACs. Did not see linkages to yearly conference attendance and how it would support the project. Sustainability was vague.
- Fiscal Sustainability Plan--excellent resource
- Specific needs for this training have been identified and seems to be based on actual needs that have already been assessed.
 - Good description of the how the resources for this training will be used.
 - Project plan is described in detail and seems likely to have an impact on the needs it aims to address.
 - More detail on the evaluation plan would be helpful, but it does appear that impacts will be captured. Performance measures seem adequate.
 - Sustainability of this project is likely to depend on continued funding through GCC or other means.
 - Collaboration / connection with local entities is well described and will likely ensure the success of this training program.
- A lot of information was missing, I didn't feel that the need to send the medical staff to the conference in SD was well supported when the training was to be developed for current or new staff. The abstract didn't support the need with data and the sustainability plan was not well documented.
- Not clear on sustainability. Is this a one time project or is there a plan to continue the needed training beyond this grant?
- I very much value the work of the CACs. That said, this project seems to be designed to address a shortage of funding for work the CACs are already required to do/standards staff are required to meet. While well-credentialed and educated professionals will provide better services for children who access the CACs, I'm not sure this is the type of project CJA seeks to support. Further, the project will not expand the capacity of the CACs; it appears to simply pay some of the salaries of CACNC staff. Finally, there is no sustainability plan, beyond continuing to fundraise and seek grants.
